To Our Stakeholders,

RE: Third-party Human Rights Impact Assessment Audit of the Bisha Mine, Eritrea (2015)

This letter is to inform our stakeholders that we have recently received the third-party human rights assessment audit for the Bisha Mine (2015). This is follow-up to our first third party human rights impact assessment (2014) which is also available on our website. Over the next few months we plan to meet with stakeholders globally and inside Eritrea to discuss the contents of this report and proposed next steps. The Company, alongside our Eritrean partners ENAMCO, are committed to the highest standards towards all aspects of our operations including the human rights of our workforce, supply chain and nearby communities. In the spirit of transparency and ongoing constructive dialogue, we have posted this entire report on our website. For a fulsome reference to how we carry out our business, stakeholders are encouraged to review our latest Nevsun Corporate Social Responsibility report which can also be viewed on our website.

We welcome any feedback or questions that you may have on this recent audit report or on our overall approach to human rights at the Bisha Mine.

Sincerely,

Todd Romaine
